CONGRESS FORESHOWN.

The Probabilities for This Week-Complications. The "Steering Committee"

in a Quandary. The oleomargarine bill is to be further debated in the Senate to-day and its managers express a hope—which, however, is not shared with the majority of the Senate -that final action will be reached to-night The reports upon the Payne case—a privileged question—are to be taken up to mor-row, and if present intentions are adhered to the debate will be left to the Republicans almost entirely. The purpose of the Democratic members of the committee on privileges and elections to rest their case upon their report gives some ground for the helief that the question may be brought to a vote by or before Wednesday night. If the oleomargarine bill is not disposed of to-day it will be taken up again after a vote is reached on the Payne case, and carried to its conclusion. The sundry civil appropriation bill will probably next be taken up and a long debate is expected upon it. A day will probably be taken before the cud of the week for the consideration of "objected cases" on the calendar of nominations.

It is possible, though not probable, that Democratic members of the committee on

of nominations.

It is possible, though not probable, that Senator Dawes will find an opportunity during the week to call up the unanimous report of the Indian committee, recommending the passage over the veto of the bill granting to railroads the right of way through the Indian reservation of northern Montans.

The new payal establishment, land grant

The new naval establishment, land grant forfeitures, interstate commerce, and the fortification appropriation bill are the subfortification appropriation bill are the subjects that promise to engross the attention of the House during the coming week. The unexpected wreck of the last of the appropriation bills—the fortifications bill—on Saturday has somewhat disturbed the plans of the Democratic "steering committee," and it may be found necessary to recommit the bill to the appropriations committee, so that it may be replaced by a measure not likely to succumb to the point of order which was made with such fatal effect in the case of the original bill. If this subject can be disposed of in season to-day it will be in order to move to suspend the rules and pass bills upon the recommendation of be in order to move to suspend the rules and pass bills upon the recommendation of committees. Attempts will be made under this order to pass the bill to increase the annual appropriation for the support of the militis, the bill concerning the life of patents, and possibly the bill to increase the pensions of soldiers who have lost a limb. The introduction of one or more concurrent resolutions fixing a day for final adjournment is expected, but while the present indications point to an adjournment about the 1st of next month, it is tolerably certain that the ways and means committee will not report a resolution on that subject until the last possible moment. The reason assigned is, a resolution on that subject until the last possible moment. The reason assigned is, that 'f the two houses agree upon a day of adjournment, motions to suspend the rules of the House of Representatives will be in order at any time during the last six days of the session, and the 'steering committee' would thereby lose control of the business of the House.

It is believed that final adjournment cannot be delayed after the passage of appropriation bills. The positions of those not yet sent to the President are as follows. The fortifications bill awaits passage by the House; the general deficiency bill has reached the Senate committee, and will probably be reported to-morrow; the sundry probably be reported to-morrow; the sundry civil bill has been reported to the Senate, and is ready for the action of that body; and is ready for the action of that body; the naval, river and harbor, and legislative bills are in the conference stage of proceedings. The last named has already been the subject of two conferences, and all but two or three points of difference have been adjusted. The most troublesome of the remaining points is the Senste amendment providing for private secretaries to sensions who are not chairmen of committees. The Senate has voted to adhere to this, bodding that in a matter relating so exclusively to its own affairs the other branch of Congress ought not to interfere. A conof Congress ought not to interfere. A con-test over this matter occurs each year, al-ways resulting in a victory by the Senate.

A LECTURE ON BLUNDERS.

Men Should Not Embark in Under takings Unknowingly.

Rev. C. Herbert Richardson, at the Mc-Kendree Church last evening, spoke on "Blunders." He took his text from psalm xxxix: 1-"I saith to myself 'Take heed of thy way that thou sin not with thy tongue. I will keep my mouth with a bridle while the wicked is before me."

while the wicked is before me."

The preacher told just what'a blunder meant as defined by Webster, and proceeded to explain that the word blunder-buse was derived from it, and illustrated the word by a comparison of that weapon of destruction with blundering man. The blunderbuse was fired indiscriminately into a crowd without taking aim. It was powerful, but, like a man without a straightforward purpose, it worked to had effect. erful, but, like a man without a straightforward purpose, it worked to bad effect.
The first thing for a man to do in life was to take a just measure of his abilities and to engage in such enterprises as he should judge that another with similar ability would succeed in. Referring to a Bible illustration for his remarks he apoke of Saul putting his armor on David and telling him to fight the Philistines.
But David would not wear the armor, and instead took his sling and five stones and went forth to slay the enemy; judging went forth to slay the enemy; judging rightly his abilities. So it was every man's duty to select means for the accomplish-ments of his objects in life that were familiar to him, and thus save himself from the blunders committed by men embarking in unknown undertakings with no knowl-edge of proper methods for their accom-pilahments.

THE LATEST EXCITEMENT.

A Novelty Drawing Large and Enthusiastic Crowds.

The roller coaster at Athletic Park is a royelty, drawing large and enthusiastic crowds every evening, and its popularity here bids fair to rival the success which has here bids fair to rival the success which has attended its introduction in other cities and at summer resorts. It may be described in a few words as a circular railway on which the cars are propelled by the force of gravitation, and the exhibitanting effect of a first ride is a bid for a second and so on—the price charged being so moderate as to require no restriction in the healthful and invigorating exercise. In the matter of construction and finish the roller coaster of this citx/excels any ever seen. A broad this citx/excels any ever seen. A broad with a carvas awning affords a cool resting place, and the effect at night, with brilliant lights and handsome Chinese lanterns, is quite bewildering. Ladies and children who desire to escape the crowd will find the hours from 4 to 7 most desirable, while coasting parties of young people will prefer the added attraction of moonlight.

Accidental Drowning.
William Bezin, colored, aged 23 years, living at 318 B street southwest, when in bathing alongside the Long bridge yesterday bathing alragside the Long bridge yesterday aftermoon, was seized with cramps and drowned before assistance could reach him. Coroner Patterson gave certificate of secidental death by drowning. Jeremiah Dunnween, 10 years old, when crossing the canal lock at Twenty-unth streat at 4:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon, fell in the canal and was drowned. The body was recovere dby John W. Curry, an hour later.

The Library Site.

In the interview last Saturday between Secretary Lamar and Acting Secretary Fairchild as to the manner of paying the awards for the ground for the library site it was decided to turn the appropriation over to Secretary Lamar in the lump. He will disburse the money and actile with the property-holders as rapidly as their titles are declared valid.

A New Catholie Church. The erection of a new Catholic church will begin this week at the corner of Fif. teenth and V streets, to accommodate Catholics living in the northern part of the city. Rev. Father Mackin, now assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Church, will be the pastor.

Killing a Cow. An incoming train from Alexandria, at 8:20 o'clock yesterday morning, struck a cow on the Virginia and of the Long bridge, killing it instantly. The cow belonged to Messrs. Kelly & Smith, cattle brokers.

DANIEL S. MANNING CLUB. How a Group of Aspiring Department Clerks Precipitated the President's

(Philadelphia Times Special.) Speculation has been busy for two or hree days to find some specific reason for he issue of the President's order against political sctivity on the part of office-holders just at this time. Various surmises have been indulged in, the principal of which were the presence of a number of mises have been indulged in, the principal of which were the presence of a number of officials at the convention which renominated Mr. Holman, of Indiana, and one or two other congressional conventions held in the west and south.

But from developments to-day it seems that the cause is to be found right here in Washington. It seems that certain bureau and division officials, mainly in the Treasury Department, conceived the idea that an association composed of none but the faithful and the true could do a great deal of needed party work. So they proceeded to organize such a body. Several meetings of none but trusted leaders in the movement were held in a room of the treasury building, with the result that a plan was adopted by which 100 picked men from every department, and distributed all over the country, should be formed into an organization to be known as "The Daniel Manning Social Club."

The strictest secrecy was observed, and, strange to say, none of the movements of this chosen band were revealed to the newspapers. After several meetings plans were perfected, a constitution and by-laws adopted, and preparations made for thorough work. Among the principal objects of the club thus veiled under the name of a social organization was that of supplying information upon which removals were to the made by the heads of departments and bureaus. These bureau and division officials come into very close relations with their subordinates and can easily secure a great deal of information about their political records. This was to be collected and kept always in shape for presentation the head of department, when, as one of the mon interested remarked to-day, "the number of Republicans who could have been a surpfise to all oncerned."

Not only were all these preliminary arrangements made, but officers were arrangements made, but officers were elected and a club building leased in an aristocratic and fashlonable section of the city. Chenowith, of Texas, first auditor of the treasury, who will be recalled as having been engaged in an altercation with the civil service commission some time ago, was elected president; ex-Representative Shelley, of Alabama, now fourth auditor of the treasury, was to be vice president; Fister, of Kutztown, Berks county, now chief clerk in the office of the supervising architect, was chosen secretary, and a man named Kritz, now of Texas but formerly of Pennsylvania, had been elected treasurer. The admission fee, or assessment, had been perfected for creating a very comprehensive club, with the purpose of doing a great deal of effective work in politics.

Although the whole movement was sedulously concealed from heads of departments and their assistants and from the public, knowledge of it was brought to the President. Heremembered the disreputable character of the work done by the old state associations under depublican administrations and concluded that he would nip the movement in the bud. The matter was laid before the Cabinet at its meeting on Tuesday. The President's order was issued on Wednesday night and published in the papers on Thursday morning. So effective was it that a meeting of the leading organizers of the "Daniel Manning Social Club" was held Thursday night, when a resolution was peased without dissent that the club should be disbanded without further delay. The members who had paid their S25 are wondering when they will get their money back and who will pay the rent of the club building for the remainder of the year, while those who had not paid are congratulating themselves upon their good luck and laughing in their seeves at their less fortunate neighbors.

SHE LIKES OLD MEN.

Mrs. Cleveland Frefers Their Conversation.

Iton to That of the Worthless Society Beaux.

[Philadelphia Times Special.]

There is one class of society people whose hearts Mrs. Cleveland has falled to win, and that class is the gilded young beaux. Her personal charms are all that they could desire, but she has shown such slight recognition of their attractions that they are disgusted with her bad taste. Ever since she became mistress of the white house she has shown a preference for the company and conversation of the old men. While talking with them she is vivacious and full of bright rapartee and perfectly charming. With the elegant generation of young society men she is quite the opposite. Her manner is chilly to a estatal degree. She says little, and although she smiles occassionally, yet it is one of that cold, discoursionally, yet it is one of that the discoursional with and with hands'—that we gain an adequate lead of its stupendousness and sublimity. Not far from the bridge there has been discovered during the nat year another. versation.
The young men cannot understand it.

The young men cannot understand it. They cannot comprehend why Mrs. Cleveland prefers the dry old legislators to their elegant selves. Their self-esteem has been wounded time and again, and when they hear the praises of the President's wife they are not apt to join the chorus. It is said that Mrs. Cleveland has more than once expressed something like contempt for the youth who move in official circles here. This is not surprising, for the young men, as a rule, are not such that the capital society can be proud of. There are in society here more idle and utterly worthless young men than can be found in any other part of the United States. All their thoughts seem to be given to dress, personal adornment, and pleasures of a more or less commendable kind. Most of them are the sons of lawmakers, and they depend for subsistence upon their fathers. They are degenerate sons of worthy sires, physically as well as mentally. While all the senators, with one or two exceptions, and fully three-fourths of all the members are large, able-bodied men, most of their hopeful sons are cigarettesmoking dandles, small, narrow-chested, weak-kneed, and delicate. That Mrs. Cleveland should prefer the brave veterans, who are mauly in person as well as in their mode of living, is not remarkable, except who are manly in person as well as in their mode of living, is not remarkable, except who are manly in person as well as in their mode of living, is not remarkable, except to the striplings themselves.

Of the senators Mrs. Cieveland seems to like most the conversation of jolly old sawyer, of Wisconsin. He is such a fatherly old gentleman, withat of jokes and laughter and so gentlemanly with one that no woman or man can help liking him. Mr. Sawyer goes to the white house quite often, and his conversation is so much enjoyed by Mrs. Cleveland that he has become one of her most enthusiastic admirers.

"Mrs. Cleveland is one of the best conversers I have ever met," said the senator as few days ago, It is expected that he meant one of the finest listeners, for old Sawyer always does the talking when in company. The President's wife also likes to talk with the venerable Wilson, of Maryland, who looks so much like a revolutionary worthy. When she visited the capitol a few weeks ago Senator Wilson met her at one of the Senate entrances and quite a long chat ensued, which they both seemed to enjoy very much. Mr. Wilson was at the white house but few times before the marriage; since that event he has become, perhaps, the most frequent caller among the senators. Mrs. Cleveland has said that he is the handsomest looking old gentleman in Washington. It is whispered in the Senate that Gorman, the other senator from Maryland, doesn't like this turn of affairs. So far he bas had the undisputed control of the federal patronage in Maryland, and he fears that these frequent visits to the white house may have some political influence.

Maryland, and he fears that these frequent visits to the white house may have some political influence.

Another visitor to the white house is exGov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania. The governor is fond of relating war reminiscences, and Mrs. Cleveland likes to listen to them.

Capt. Eads. who accompanied her on a visit to the capitol, is the latest to be added to the white house frequenters.

RAILWAY NOTES.

H. R. Dill, superintendent of the Huntington division Chesapeako and Ohio, has resigned and will be succeeded by J. W. Hopkins, at present fuel agent of the road.

A dispatch from Chicago last night represents that in spite of the energetic efforts of Commissioner Blanchard to secure the maintenance of east-bound freight rates by the various roads in the Central Traffic Association more or less irregularities are continually discovered, and it seems to be only a question of a short time when a general reduction in cast cound freights will have to be made.

SOUTHWEST VIRGINIA. The Political Caldren Bolling With

Great Ferocity. ABINOTON, July 17.-The political caldron is boiling in southwest Virginia just now with a hitherto unknown ferocity, The all-absorbing question now seems to be: "Who will be the Democratic candidate now with a hitherto unknown ferocity. The all-absorbing question now seems to be:

"Who will be the Democratic candidate for defeat for Congress next fall from the ninth district?" Mr. Trigg will be supported by the Bourbon ex-aristocracy of Washington county, and the connections of the ancient F. F. V.'s in one or two adjoining counties only partially, General complaint is urged against Trigg by his hitherto warm supporters. The Democracy here is hopelessly divided, not alone by national, but local issues. The local option law enacted at the last seasion of the legislature continues to grow as a placing thorn in the sides of the Democracy party. That party was especially pledged to the Blair bill and to the repeal of internal revenue. The former has been quietly shelved in the Democratic vault, there to sleep the sleep of the unwelcome guest. Trigg has voted with Morrison, and, as Morrison is pledged against all internal revenue reform, his claims before the people are now counted for only so much campaign claptrap promises, only to be broken when opportunity arises. The federal court has recently attempted to hold a court here, compelling poor and needy Jarmers to come from their homes in the distant mountains, in some instances is omlies, as witnesses, and then informed that there was no money to run the court, and they were compelled to sell their attendance fees at a heavy discount, in some instances amounting to 50 per cent. Out of the 500 suitors attending the court, it is asfe to say, 400 were prior to 1884 Demogratic convention assembles on the 4th of August, at Wytheville. As to who will be nominated the party wote in his native county. He appeared as counsel in the James White-Ward shooting affair, and that is belog used against him. Besides, it is persistently claimed that Trigg has almost entirely ignored the letters addressed to him by his constituints since he has been posting as a congressman.

It is safe to predict that ex-Congressman Bowen or ex-Attorney General Blair will be the Republican ca

NATURAL BRIDGE, VA., July 15.—It would be difficult to imagine a more pleas ant or profitable way of spending a few days free from the cares of an active city life than taking advantages of the pleasant excursions to Luray and this point which excursions to Lursy and this point which now leave Washington. In a marvelously short space of time after steaming out of Washington with a pleasant party, we had arrived at Harper's Ferry, and as the train slackened speed for a few moments took our first view of the historic ground on which still stands John Brown's fort. Here, to its witnessed the heavitful sight formed which still stands John Brown's fort. Here, too, is witnessed the beautiful sight formed by the junction of the Shenandoah with the Potomac. Then on again down the pleturesque valley of the Shenandoah by moonlight. The outlook for the present season is unusually good. Already the greater number of the cottages have been engaged and will soon be occupied by the families of army and navy officers, and the hotels, Forest inn, Appledore, and Pavilion, seem in no less demand. Various improvements have been effected since last season, so that the hotel accommodations are among the finest to be found anywhere. Col. The slow progress of the House has somewhat alarmed many of the claimants, and they propose to hold a meeting this morning at 9 o'clock at the National Hotel, at which some of the claimants and their attorneys will speak some plain words in regard to the manner in which their claims have been neglected by the House. An interesting time is expected, and many will attend to see the fun.

DEATH OF DETECTIVE COX. He Dies Suddenly at Fortress Monroe

Last Saturday, Detective J. T. Cox, of the police force of this city, died at Fortress Monroe Saturday evening, in the 65th year of his age. Mr. Cox was taken ill on the 24th of June Mi. Cox was taken ill on the 24th of June last with pneumonia, caused by getting wet in the rain. He remained slok at his home, Eleventh and Il streets, for sometime, and last Tuesday he and his daughter went to Fortress Monroe, hoping that a change of air and seene would beneft him. Shortly after arriving there he gradually grew worse, and inflammation of the bowels setting in, lead to his death. The deceased was appointed on the detective force April 1, 1883, a few weeks after Maj. Dye assumed command of the department. Socially he was liked and admired by all who came in contact with him. He was a man of excellent education and polished manners. His home was for many years in Georgetown, and at the outbreak of the war he cast his lot with the south, and when the war ended he came out of the army a colonel, with the rank of a brevet brigadier general. He had pleasant ways about him that made him a companion much to be sought after. At all times, when in any agreeable frame of mind, he possessed a versatile power commanding respect. For a man of his age he was wonderfully active and energetic. Though a short time a member of the detective corps, his record was that of a faithful and palmakking officer. He spared neither time nor rest in the performance of his duty and was very successful in doing whatever was assigned to him. He has several relatives living here, among them Judge Walter S. Cox. of the supreme court District of Columbia, and Richard S. Cox. Detective Cox's wife died some years ago. He leaves a grown up daughter. The body will arrive here this morning on the boat, and the foueral will take place this afternoon. Maj. Walker will sunounce to-day, in a general order to the department, the death of Mr. Cox, and make the necessary arrangements for the funeral will be made at Oak Hill Cemetery. last with pneumonia, caused by getting THE PENNSYLVANIA VETERANS twenty-second anniversary of the battle of Fort Stevens, in front of Washington, D. C., was celebrated yesterday at Shuster's Park by the third annual reunion of the 98th regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. This regiment was, with the excepof the 98th regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. This regiment was, with the exception of company K, Capt. E. Beamish, composed of Germans. Unlike nearly all the other German regiments, the 98th was not assigned to duty under Gen. Sigel, but formed part of the 2d brigade of the 3d division, 6th army corpe, afterward transferred to the 2d division of that corps. On the battle flag of the 98th are inscribed the names of the following battles: Yorktown, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Mechanicsville, Malvern Hill, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Marye's Heights, Gettysburg, Rappahannock Station, Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, Cold Harbor, Fort Stevens, Opequau, Fisher's Hill, Cedar Creek, Petersburg, and Appomattox.

The park was profusely decorated with American flags. The Franz Josef Orchestra was present and furnished music for daucing. The Allemania Sang Verein and the Tischler Saenger Chor sang some of their best selections. Comrade Hasher led a choir of veterans in singing some warsongs in English. Speeches were made by Gen. John F. Ballier, the first colonel of the 98th; Capt. Beamish, who commanded the regiment at the battle of Fort Stevens; J. Schmit, Godfrey Kuebler, of the Canustatter Society, and others. A large number of invited guests were present, including Common Councilman Loeble, Col. Robert L. Orr, of the 61st Pennsylvania; Capt. Charles F. Kennedy, of the 23d; Capt. J. S. Lanc, of the 68d; the lifting party of the Koltes Post, No. 228, G. A. R., Mrs. Gen. John F. Koltes and daughter, and singing. The officers of the association are: Commander, E. Beamish, vice commander, E. Schert; adjutant, August Essman; quartermaster, E. Emmig.

Hard Truths for British Manufacturers.

The British consuls make trade reports, just as Secretary Evarts instructed our own to do, and the volume presented to parliamen a short time ago is not cheerful reading for the British free trader, for it not only "confirms the intelligence received from many other sources that every country is now suffering from trade depression, but," says the Mechanical World, of London, "we very much regret to say that they unmistakably prove that our manufacturers are annually prove that our manufacturers are annually falling behind in the race; that Great Brit-ani-s lesing ground, and is being gradually driven from the field." Such a confession driven from the field." Such a confession by such an authority is significant of progress in a direction where the obstacles of wealth, prestige, and long oscupation were most difficult to overcome, Germany and America are the powerful rivals. Germany is grasping the Italian metal market, and Swiss and Italian machinists are slowly but surely driving out the English.

There was more refined oil shipped to Europe in 1885 than in 1884 or in 1881. It was indeed about 24 per cent. less than in 1882, but only about 4 per cent. less than 1883. On the contrary, the amount of crude petroleum shipped to Europe has been materially increasing since 1881, as have lubricating oils and residuum also. The exports of crude petroleum to Europe in 1885 were more than 78,000,000 gallons, and nearly 100 per cent. more than the exports of crude in 1882. The exports of inbricating oil to Europe in 1885 were more than 10,000,000 gallons, and more than 100 per cent. greater than 1882 and more than 100 per cent. greater than 1882 and more than 100 per cent. greater than 1882 and more than 100 per cent. greater than 1882 and more than 100 per cent. greater than 1884 exports in 1882. Austria, France, and Spain particularly have diminished their demand for illuminating oils, but have more than compensated for the difference in increased demand for crude. Shipments of illuminating oils have suffered more in the German trade than in any other, yet the exports of lubricating oil to Germany in 1885 were nearly 300 per cent. of such exports in 1882.

NIGHT AND DAY, A Monthly Record of Christian Missions and Practical Philoso-phy, May, Edited by Dr. Banxanto-London, E. Nos. 18 to 28, Stepney Cause way, 4d. From the publisher.

A liberally illustrated, carefully presented ecord, and most eloquent advocate of those, the poor, who commonly have no friends. All generous people, wherever throughout the world their homes may rise, should be deeply moved by the sub-jects here treated, and, if pecuniarily able, assist such supremely good purposes.

THE SIDEBEAL MESSENGER. Conducted by Win, M. Payne, director of Carleton College observatory, July. For annun, $2. Northfield, Minn.; Carleton College Observ-story. From the editor. "Pulkowa Double-star Work," by Otto

LIPPINCOTT'S POPULAR SPELLING-BOOK. In two parts: Part 1. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. For sale by Bren-tano Brothers, 24 cents.

This book is a spelling-book and nothing else. It does not undertake, also, to teach natural history, geography, physics, and morals. Herein is its superiority to any of its predecessors. Another advantage: It does not employ words that are uncommon and difficult, so distressing, puzzling, and discouraging young minds. One of the noblest things possible to man in earth-life is to prepare the way, smooth it, strew it with flowers, plant its borders with trees which will bring forth fruit in their season—the way to be walked by the little prigrim on his progress "through nature to eternity." "Lippincott's Popular Spellingbook" has done this good work better than any sid for beginners of its class with which we are sequainted. morals. Herein is its superiority to any of

POOR'S DIRECTORY OF RAILWAY OFFI-CIALS AND RAILWAY DIRECTORS. New York: 70 Wall street. #2. From the pub-lishers.

All the industrial interests of the country need, and the wise will procure, this comprehensive volume. Every branch of trade will find it invaluable as a mailing list. Changes and additions occurring will be published quarterly in a supplement and sent, free of charge, to each subscriber.

SHOPPELL'S MODERN HOUSES, HIOPPELL'S MODERN HOUSES, An illustrated architectural quarterly, July, Edited by Robert W. Shoppell and Stanley S. Covert, Co-operative Building Plan Association, ar-chitects, New York, 101 Brondway, St. From the publishers. A superb periodical, indispensable to all who contemplate building beautiful and comfortable homes. The views of cottages comfortable homes. The views of cottages are numerous and excellent, the descriptive articles clear, full, and satisfactory. Our surroundings, if pleasant, increase our napplness; decrease it if otherwise. The house in which we dwell is like the body tenanted by the soul; if the house or body be "out of tune and harsh," the occupant must feel the misfortuse.

MONTHLY BULLETIN OF THE COMMIS-SIONER OF IMMIGRATION FOR THE TERRITORY OF DAKOTA. May, De-partment of immigration and statistics, Lauren Dunlan, commissioner. Huron, 18k. From the commissioner.

A bulletin ample in information relating to Dakota, and liberally illustrated with to Dakota, and liberally illustrated with representations of its scenery, public buildings, such as asylums, the university, cities, colleges, farm cottages, hotels, banks, &c. Much and Inportant information is herein printed, as inducements to settlers, and the prospect, no doubt correctly, is rendered very attractive. Figures support the story, and figures, as the world knows, like George Washington in his early days, are sober and solemn and infallible things. They cannot tell—mildly to speak—a false-hood.

THE COSMOPOLITAN. July, Schlight & Field, Rochester, N. Y. 21 cents. From the publishers. Interesting, useful, and illustratednegazine which will be welcome to every member of the household. A fine story by Julian Hawthorne, "False Parallels," opens the number. "The Thieves of Paris" is a curious and attractive article. All hearts will hall the Cosmopolitan on its monthly

THE PANSY. "Pansies for Thoughts." July D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, Mass. 10 cts From the publishers. A prettily illustrated and pleasantly written monthly magazine for our little ones, which all good parents and friends will see that they possess. Oh, happy children of these days, for whom such delights are pre-pared, denied, totally denied to the juve-ules of the past!

WHITE CROSS LIBRARY. THE PROCESS OF RE-EMBODIMENT, July, 10 conts, F. J. Needham, Boston, Mass, 22 Tremont Row. From the publisher. It may be so, or it may not, that when about through space until they find some about through space until they and some new-born body to which they take a fancy and occupy it. Whether this be so or not, will probably require time, or eternity, to determine. For us, certainly, the mystery remains unsolved after perusal of "The Process of Re-embodiment." Yet there is curious thought in the article.
